

One of the things that make our company unique is that we live and work in the communities we serve. Part of that means giving back to the community in many different ways. Advocate has long been a supporter of local programs through sponsorships and other forms of service. Engaging with our employees to better serve causes they support helps strengthen our commitment to our team and the community. In this edition, we are featuring the Ronald McDonald House – Denver.

At Advocate, Our Denver Team went above and beyond by dedicating their time to make a difference in the lives of others.

They generously volunteered at Ronald McDonald House Charities, preparing meals for families who are currently staying there while their child is receiving medical care.

“Its so hard to know what parents and families are going through, it was very rewarding to help make their lives just a little easier, even if it was for just one meal,” said Jordan Greenberg, Advocate Roofing Sales Director.

Ronald McDonald House Charities of Denver (RMHC) Provides Hope, Stability, and a Place to Call Home

When families have a seriously ill child and need to seek medical care far from their own homes, they can turn to Ronald McDonald House to find a home away from home. At no cost. For as long as treatment takes. RMHC-Denver gives families with sick children what they need the most — each other.

More about the Ronald McDonald House (RMHC) Denver:

For more than 40 years, RMHC-Denver has been keeping families of sick children together and near the medical care that they need.

We provide temporary housing for out-of-area families needing to be near their hospitalized children at no cost to them. Between the two houses, the Aurora House and the Denver House, RMHC can keep 118 families close to their hospitalized children each night. In addition, RMHC-Denver operates three Ronald McDonald Family Rooms, which offer families a place to rest and regroup just steps away from their child’s hospital bed.
